

Mass Grave found in Serbia - November 20, 2020

European Union Rule of Law Mission in Kosovo (EULEX) experts announced that they reached the mass grave of the Kosovo war (1998-1999) in a quarry in the Kizevak region of the city of Rashka, Serbia. The skeletal remains are thought to belong to Kosovo Albanians and were transported to this area during the war.

Kizevak is the fifth place in Serbia where mass graves have been discovered. Earlier, graves, with a total of 941 bodies, were discovered in Batajnica, Perukac, Petrovo Selo and Rudnica.
