

Our Research Center has moved to its new location

INSAMER Humanitarian and Social Research Center has moved to its new building in Edirnekapi. Our center having continued its activities in the IHH headquarters in Fatih for the past two years, will continue to operate independently in its new location. INSAMER, an independent research center, publishes reports and books based on both scientific and field survey. It carries out both practice-based and theoretical studies with its staff focusing on different areas of expertise. It also offers education and consultancy services to researchers from different levels of education.

Our new center has a library consisting of more than three thousand books, a seminar room for scholarly studies and a qualified infrastructure for scholarly activity. Through the training seminars offered periodically, it guides young scholars by means of specific research units.
